Payment Details / Terms & Conditions

Payments are to be made in full on the day of arrival for the duration. In the event that livery fees remain unpaid for more than one week from the initial due date, Abbey Farm Equestrian retains the right to suspend all ridden work. Additionally, Abbey Farm Equestrian may choose to sell items of tack to recover the outstanding costs, provided that written notice is given to the horse owner at least seven days prior to the date of sale. From the proceeds of the tack sale, Abbey Farm Equestrian is entitled to withhold amounts sufficient to cover any unpaid sums owed under this agreement, as well as reasonable costs associated with the sale. Any remaining funds will be returned to the owner within 30 days following the sale.

Abbey Farm Equestrian acknowledges its obligation to maintain a safe and appropriate environment for the horse throughout the livery period. The agreed-upon services will be provided in an efficient and professional manner, prioritizing the welfare needs of the horse. Abbey Farm Equestrian commits to exercising the necessary skill, care, and diligence expected of a reputable livery yard.

During the duration of the agreement, Abbey Farm Equestrian will employ an adequate number of skilled, experienced, and, where applicable, professionally qualified individuals to carry out the services.

As per the terms and services of the specified livery type, Abbey Farm Equestrian assumes sole responsibility for the following horse care aspects: daily turnout, bringing in, rug changes, stable maintenance, bedding, water provision, preparation and feeding of hay and feed, as well as exercise.

Under the terms and services of the specified livery type, the HORSE OWNER bears the responsibility for ensuring that the horse arrives at Abbey Farm Equestrian suitably shod, vaccinated, and in good health. The HORSE OWNER affirms that all provided details are accurate to the best of their knowledge and commits to paying the full livery fee upon the horse's arrival for the entire duration of the stay.

Rehabilitation Livery To effectively assess and treat horses/ponies on rehabilitation livery, it may be necessary to have access to their veterinary records. The vet records can provide valuable information about the horse's medical history, previous treatments, any ongoing conditions, and recommended protocols for their rehabilitation. Having access to these records allows Abbey Farm Equestrian to have a comprehensive understanding of the horse's health status and any specific requirements they may have. This ensures that appropriate care and treatment can be provided during the rehabilitation period.

If you're considering placing a horse on rehabilitation livery, it is recommended to discuss the requirement for vet records with Abbey Farm Equestrian beforehand. They can guide you on the necessary documentation and procedures to ensure the best care for your horse during their rehabilitation.

Schooling Livery A schooling plan will be developed based on the owner's suggested problem areas or areas of improvement. The riding sessions will be tailored accordingly, and rest days will be incorporated as needed to ensure the horse's well-being.

If achieving a goal requires a longer period than initially assessed after the horse's assessment, Abbey Farm Equestrian will propose a new time frame. If the owner does not accept the new time frame, Abbey Farm Equestrian will not be held responsible for goals not met within the original time frame.

Video updates and progress reports will be provided during the week, aiming for regular communication. However, the frequency may vary based on other work commitments. Owners should ensure, to the best of their ability, that the horse is sound and has undergone necessary checks, such as veterinary, farrier, saddle fitting, physiotherapy, and dental care, before arrival. Reports from these professionals may be required.

If the horse appears uncomfortable or lame during the schooling period, Abbey Farm Equestrian reserves the right to immediately stop work and inform the owner of their findings.

Sales Livery at Abbey Farm Equestrian involves preparing and marketing horses for sale. Upon arrival, an initial assessment is conducted to evaluate the horse's condition, training level, and suitability for sale. This assessment helps determine the horse's market value and identifies potential target buyers. This process will take one week from arrival.

During the sales livery period, the horse receives training and schooling sessions to enhance its presentation and performance. This includes working on flatwork, jumping, and discipline-specific skills that are relevant to the intended market for the horse.

Abbey Farm Equestrian takes on the responsibility of marketing and promoting the horse to potential buyers. They create advertisements, organize viewings, and utilize various channels such as online platforms, social media, and equestrian events to showcase the horse's abilities and attract interested parties.

Negotiations with potential buyers are handled by Abbey Farm Equestrian on behalf of the owner. Their aim is to secure the best possible sales terms and price for the horse, while keeping the owner informed throughout the process.

The owner is responsible for providing accurate veterinary records and disclosing any known health issues or concerns about the horse. Abbey Farm Equestrian facilitates veterinary examinations and ensures transparency with potential buyers regarding the horse's health and history.

Once a suitable buyer is found, Abbey Farm Equestrian assists in finalizing the sales transaction. This includes managing the transfer of ownership documents, arranging payment, and addressing transportation logistics if necessary.

It is important for both parties to discuss and agree upon the specific terms and services included in the sales livery agreement to ensure a clear understanding of their respective roles and responsibilities.
